Dec. 1st Is "Safe Driving Day"

Richmond, Nov. 23.- With the question "What will the score be from November 21 through December 10," the period set aside by the President's Committee to judge the response of motorists to the Second SD Day—December 1, C. H. Lamb, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, today reviewed traffic fatalities in Virginia from 1949 through 1954, based upon SD Day minus 10 through SD Day plus 10, which will be the scoring period adopted for 1955.

"During the comparable period from Nov. 21, 1949 through December 11, 1954, here's what we came up with: 1949—58 killed; 1950—55; 1951—64; 1952—75; 1953 —49; and 1954—62; or a grand total of 363 lives sacrificed on the altar of reckless driving in Virginia," he revealed.

"Last year," the Commissioner added, "SD Day was set for December 15 and 3 persons lost their lives on Virginia's highways which gave us meager hope that motorists were changing their attitude in Virginia toward America's Common Enemy that in 1954 killed 36,000 people, disabled a total of 1,250,000 persons —one every 25 seconds— to say nothing of an estimated 4.4 billions in medical bills, property loss, and other expenses.

"These estimates, however, do not reveal the suffering of the injured or bereaved, nor do they bring sharply in focus that, insofar as Virginia was concerned, the 363 persons mentioned above who died on Virginia highways and streets for the period I have reviewed— 1949 through 1954— never gathered around a Christmas trees—some of them little children."

"If the Virginia motorist wants proof beyond this he can find it in the files of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

"Governor Stanley by proclamation calls upon Virginia motorists for a scoreless SD Day and every day thereafter.

"What will the score be between Nov. 21 and Dec. 10? The answer is with the Virginia driver, and that answer depends upon his or her attitude. I join with my fellow members of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee in an appeal to reason during the period SD Day minus 10 and plus 10."

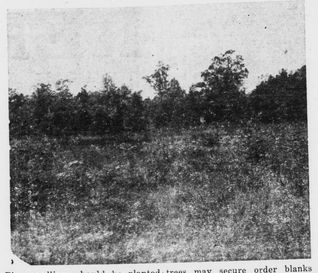
Abandoned Land Ideal For Planting Pine Seedlings



Pine seedlings should be planted on land that is not in crop or pasture. The type land ideal for young trees is that which has been abandoned. Advocates of tree planting are interested in developing these waste areas, and also areas where timber has been harvested.

Maintenance of desirable timber stands, putting idle acres to work, provide an income to the landowner, preserve the soil and holds water, and increases the value of the farm.

Orders for seedlings should be sent in immediately as reports indicate the seedling supply may be exhausted before the planting season is over.

Land owners desiring to plant trees may secure order blanks at the following places of business:

Appomattox: Farmers National Bank, Bank of Appomattox, Appomattox Farmers Supply Co., Coleman's Feed Store.

Oakville: Drinkard's store, Martin's store, Harding's store.

Vera: Bryant Bros. store, Russell Bryant's store.

Evergreen: Evans' store, Hamilton's store.

Pamplin: Ligon's store, Ralco store, Williams' Bros. store, Canada's store, Tolley's Groc., St. Johns Service Station, Tolley's Service Station.

Spout Spring: Jones' store.

Southside: Cheatham's store, Nash's store.

Opinion Rendered on Fishing in Private Ponds

According to a recently rendered opinion by Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., the regulations exempting guests from purchasing a fishing license to fish in a private pond do not exempt persons who are charged a fee or other consideration or who are paying guests.

In the Attorney General's opinion, this exemption applies exclusively to friends invited by a fish pond owner to fish without cost as his guests. This opinion was rendered by Attorney General Almond on the request of I. T. Quinn, the executive director of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries.

A Tennessee newspaper friendly to Senator Kefauver said that he would announce his candidacy for the Presidency on Dec. 8.

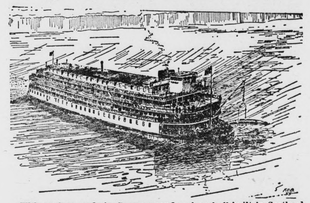
A Famous American Ship



With engines made in Germany and an iron hull built in Scotland, the DELTA QUEEN began her career as cargo aboard a freighter bound for California. Rebuilt at sunny Stockton, she there acquired her four passenger decks and an American flag. Years of successful service on the Sacramento river followed for this giant sternwheeled craft. War work as a ferry in San Francisco harbor, and then a period of lay-up set the stage for her sale to the Greene Line of Cincinnati. Her voyage at the end of a tow rope from San Francisco around to New Orleans was a thriller, for her draft was only seven feet. Today the DELTA QUEEN is flagship of one of America's last passenger steamboat lines on our inland waterway system. Our merchant marine does not only include deep-sea vessels, but also river craft such as this fine vessel. River and waterway vessels are again coming into their own as a major link in our transportation system, reports the American Merchant Marine Institute.

Important Farmers' Meeting at Appomattox Court House
MONDAY, NOV. 28, at 8 P. M.

To The Grain Growing Farmers of Appomattox County, Large and Small

Appomattox County has been made a Pilot County in 10 surrouding Lynchburg to see if we can't raise a certain amount of capital to help build a Grain Storage and Drying and Selling Facility, to help us increase the Price the Farmer gets for his wheat, corn and other grains.

I am sincerely interested in seeing if the Farmers of our county . . . Appomattox . . . are willing to cooperate in a movement to help increase their own income.

Nationwise: The Farmers are getting 24% less now for their Food and Fibers than they received in 1952, and are paying much more for what they have to buy.

I hope the Farmers of Appomattox County will cooperate with themselves and help build facilities to store, dry and sell their own Farm Grains. If Labor unions can name their price, won't you stick with your brother farmers and help, both of you to get a better price? I am counting on you. Come one, come all, and let's listen. You do not have to put up any money right now. Appomattox people never fail if they try. Will meet at the Court House next Monday night, November 28th, at 8 o'clock.

Chas. T. Moses
